WEISKOPF'S

MOUNTAIN MASTERPIECE

When the crystalline glaciers finally receded from Spokane Valley tens of thousands of years ago, they carved out the ideal terrain for a golf course. All that was missing was the vision of renowned architect Tom Weiskopf—whose genius was to let nature dictate the design. Following the natural lay of the land, CDA National Reserve's pristine 18-hole course is arguably one of the most spectacular landscapes in golf today.

“THE CANVAS WE STARTED WITH WAS ABSOLUTELY SPECTACULAR. CDA NATIONAL RESERVE IS A KNOCKOUT, PLAIN AND SIMPLE.”

—TOM WEISKOPF,
COURSE ARCHITECT

While the course lies within the beauty of a forested landscape, players enjoy numerous wide fairways with generous landing areas. Towering pines, pockets of wildflowers and expansive lake views complement the deep-green turf of the rolling fairways and brilliant whites of the bunker sand, making this a course you'll want to play over and over again.

INSPIRED BY NATURE —

Mountain-modern homes in perfect harmony

The distinctive homes of CDA National are beautifully attuned to the natural splendor of the Idaho Panhandle, with the ability to erase the line between indoor living and the great outdoors. Reflecting a signature architectural vernacular that draws from the Pacific Northwest, the custom homes merge native wood and stone with metal, structural steel and glass. Each is an artful composition for those who desire the clean lines, sophistication and natural light- and air-filled spaces of a more contemporary aesthetic.

CUSTOM HOMESITES —

Set before sweeping golf, lake, mountain and club views, the homesites of CDA National range in size from half an acre to 1.5 acres, with a collection of 5-acre+ parcels envisioned for the future. The homesites are builder-ready to minimize the amount of site work needed, and to quickly allow your build to start. Community water, irrigation, electricity, sewer and internet are ready for hookup. Homesite pads allow for single-story, 2-story and “step down” residential designs, providing an overall sense of harmony with the pristine natural setting.
